

Supplementary Fig. S3. Morphological analysis: graphical representations of results. Scatter plots of selected quantitative morphological and anatomical traits measured across different genetically delimited clades of the genus Aneura in Slovenia (n = 55). Points represent individual specimens, grouped by taxon. Dark central line represents the median. Kruskal-Wallis tests ($p < 0.05$) were used to assess differences among groups.

